The 13th Future Stars National Championships was held at the United States Olympic Training Center, Nov. 7, 2008. The Future Stars Championships features some of the best 10, 11 and 12 year old boys in the United States performing special Future Stars competitive routines on the six men's events, plus routines for still rings strength, parallel bars strength and flexibility.

The main feature of the Future Stars program is its emphasis on education and preparation for the future. The Future Stars Championships is always held in conjunction with the Men's National Coaches Workshop. This format of linked events provides for both a competitive experience and a tremendous educational opportunity. During the workshop portion of the event, athletes and coaches are provided hands-on development sessions, and there are also educational presentations for both coaches and parents. This "team" approach of working with athletes, coaches and parents is intended to provide positive information to aid in the proper development and future success of the athlete. The workshop portion of the weekend exposes the participants to presentations from some of the best coaches in the country, as well as specialists in the sports science field.

Congratulations to all our Future Stars competitors and good luck in the coming season! ✖
