Chris Brooks of the University of Oklahoma won the all-around title at the 2010 Winter Cup Challenge at the Las Vegas (Nev.) Sports Center, Feb. 7. The all-around and individual event champions were determined with a combined two-day score. In addition, 17 men were named to the U.S. Senior National Team.

Brooks, who is from Houston, led the all-around after the first day and finished with a two-day score of 175.800. He also won an individual event title on high bar (31.100). 2009 U.S. all-around champion and 2008 Olympic high bar silver-medalist Jonathan Horton of Houston/Cypress Gymnastics was second with 174.750. Horton posted an event high all-around score during the final round on Saturday night.

"I am very proud of Chris and what he was able to accomplish this weekend," said OU Head Coach Mark Williams. "He followed a good performance the first night with an even better performance to win the competition. To finish ahead of a talented field that includes Horton, says a lot about how hard he has trained. He will do great on the National Team."

The University of Michigan's Chris Cameron of Winter Haven, Fla., took third with 172.450. 2009 world fourth-place high bar finisher Danell Leyva of Miami/ Universal Gymnastics, finished in fourth (172.150) and was the top gymnast on parallel bars (30.700). Stanford's Tim Gentry of Plano, Texas, scored a 170.800 to finish in fifth.
